

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In the method of making a channel estimate, at least first and second confidence levels that a transmitted data symbol has respective first and second values are determined based on a received data symbol corresponding to the 5 transmitted data symbol. A channel estimate is then determined based on the first and second confidence levels.